

ACCESSIBILITY STATEMENT

Access to any company's website can be challenging for persons having certain disabilities. A person's disability is often unique and what can work well for one person, may cause difficulties for another. Our company has made every effort to accommodate as many of our customers and potential customers as reasonable given our site, resources and knowledge of our customers, and potential customer's needs.

Our website provides methods, features and policies that can help with access to our website and/or to products or services provided or referred to on our website or by our business. If you are having difficulty accessing our website even after utilizing these features within this website we invite you to contact us at info@jnmrealtygroup.com.

The accessibility menu can be enabled by clicking the accessibility menu icon.

We anticipate that from time to time, within our resources we will be making modifications to parts of our website, and possibly to the accessibility of our website. Reasonable efforts towards improving seamless, accessible, and unhindered use of websites by customers and potential customers is generally a worthwhile goal. Moving closer to this goal will often depend on the knowledge the company has regarding any particular difficulties those using the website might encounter, as well as available resources and improvements within technology.

Despite the efforts we may have made regarding accessibility, consistent with normal business practices for a company of our size and resources, some content, features, processes or policies may be improved, so we welcome your suggestions.
